St. Anne's Sixth Graders Visit the Manor

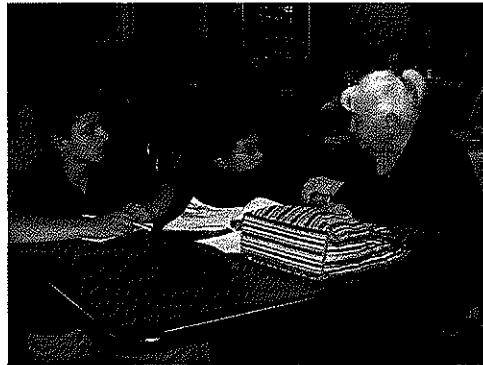

Children are always a welcome addition to our activities at the Manor and recently we were very happy to welcome the sixth graders from St. Anne's School. Poetry was a major course of study for these students during May. Some QAM residents were privileged to be included in a part of this study. The students were instructed to interview the residents and then to write a poem based on what they had learned about each one. These interviews took place in late May and the students returned June 3 to present their works. The entire sixth grade class returned on that day and sang a beautiful song the music teacher had helped them prepare. What a wonderful experience it was to have all of these young people among us.

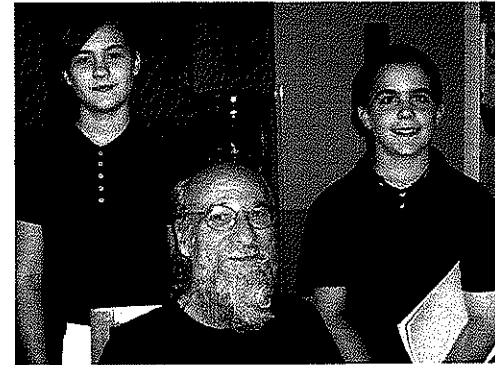

Margaret Clark loved working with the students.

Joyce Hatten listens to one of the young poets.

Gloria Buckner visits with the students who wrote her poems.

These students thought resident Dennis Sweeney had a lot to share.
